OKLAHOMA — The Sooners have three returning starters, but Tubbs says there are four starting positions open. And the position that is all but wrapped up belongs to a player who sat out the entire 1980-81 season.

Raymond Whitley's return from knee surgery is certainly Tubbs' biggest concern and it took on larger significance when transfer Jan Pannell was ruled ineligible at least until the second semester.

"We'd like to move Bo Overton to our No. 2 guard spot. Whitley is our only legitimate point guard, but the rest of the positions are completely wide open," Tubbs said.

"Normally you give the returning starters the benefit of the doubt, which is Chuckie (Barnett), Bo and Lester Pace, but I think it's probably going to be pretty wide open."

The Sooners' freshmen list includes Tulsa Washington's William Tisdale, Shawn Clark of Brandywine, Md., and 6-6 Dan Schmidt of Leavenworth, Kan. Transfers now eligible include David Little from Texas Tech and Charles Jones of McClennan Community College.

Whichever nickname Jones will live up to, "Big-time" or "Bedtime," it is about time to find out.

Big Time 102-87

NORMAN — Slowdown basketball in the midlands of America is dead. The Big Eight has gone Big Time.

For the first time in the 1982 conference season, a Big Eight team put three numbers on the scoreboard. It happened last night at Lloyd Noble as the Oklahoma Sooners posted their fourth straight win with a 102-87 triumph over last-place Colorado. And Charles "Big Time" Jones ruled the scene.

The junior college transfer from McCiennan, Texas, scored 26 points on 10 of 12 field goals and six of nine free throws and grabbed seven rebounds as OU claimed a 35-29 edge on the boards.

"Big Time's stats and what he accomplished tonight were the difference in the game," said Tom Apke, who saw his wounded Buffaloes slip to 2-9.

Channel 9 To Televis OU-Mizzou

KWTV's (Channel 9) local broadcast of tonight's Big Eight clash between Missouri and Oklahoma was made possible because the game was scheduled on a Thursday night, said KWTV program director Jack Sallaska.

Saturday games are tied up through NCAA contracts with NBC and CBS television networks, and Wednesday night games can only be shown by stations affiliated with an independent network (locally, KOKH, Channel 25), Sallaska explained.

Therefore, a basketball game must be played on an off night (such as Thursday) in order for a local station to pick up the rights to broadcast it, he said.

Jim Miller and Ed Murray will be tonight's announcers.

Cal-Irvine defeated San Diego State 70-67 Friday night in the first round of the NIT, advancing to a second-round game with Oklahoma on Monday night.

NIT OU to Face ORU

77 Cal-Irvine at Oklahoma 80

Time and location: 8 p.m. at Lloyd Noble Arena.
Radio-TV: KTOK (10000, KNOR (1400), KGOV-FM (106), KTVY (Ch. 4).
Records: Cal-Irvine 23-6; Oklahoma 20-10.
Lineups: Cal-Irvine — Ben McDonald, 6-8, soph.; Rainer Wulf, 6-7, sr.; Kevin McGee, 6-8, sr.; Randy Wheldon, 6-4, sr.; Kevin Fuller, 6-3, jr. Oklahoma — David Little, 6-7, jr.; Darryl Allen, 6-7 jr.; Charles Jones, 6-10, jr.; Bo Overton, 6-3, jr.; Chucky Barnett, 6-4 jr.
Outlook: Second-round NIT game. Game expected to be sellout. Cal-Irvine All-America center McGee will be playing with an injured right hand after cutting it in the Anteaters' NIT win over San Diego State. The injury required nine stitches to close and officially McGee is listed as "questionable." The Sooners have had a week of rest following last Tuesday's opening round win over Oral Roberts. After trailed 11-0 and 17-3, the Sooners came back to beat the Titans 81-73, giving Oklahoma its third 20-victory season in history. The Anteaters feature a running attack fed by a strong rebounding game and the Sooners must slow them down and rebound with them. The key to the game is how much — and how well — McGee will be able to play.

It was Big Blue, you know that right away. He was coming toward you, tall and impressive looking. Even as you walked through Cleveland's Hopkins International Airport. He was balding, but that was nothing new, and wore a dark blue business suit, which seemed appropriate when his nickname flashed through your mind. It was Big Blue all right.

It was Red Pettit, the pride of Louisiana, once a skinny All-America at LSU before anyone ever heard of "Pistol Pete" Maravich, later a hero with the Hawks in Milwaukee and St. Louis, especially in St. Louis. Damn, if he still didn't look good. He'd be able to still grab a rebound and muscle his way in for two. The sight of Pettit popping in a one-handed jumper from the baseline for a big basket down the street was still a vivid image. One that would remain as long as they played the winter game. Pettit's death started 90 years ago.

Pettit was married at a banquet the night before at Slater's Inn on the Square in downtown Cleveland, a banquet on the eve of the National Basketball Association's All-Star Game. The Coliseum in suburban Richfield. Pettit was among the pastimes who got the dais, and shared the spotlight. Pettit was the last of the old guard, the last of the old guard. For some of us, these were the days. Pettit and the other old-timers stole the spotlight.

The NBA had polled the Professional Basketball Association of America to select a champion with the 35th anniversary. It included Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Wilt Chamberlain, Bob Cousy, Bill Russell, John Havlicek, George Mikan, Oscar Robertson, Bill Russell, Jerry West.

(15-12) OKLAHOMA

Russell named Wilt Chamberlain as the "greatest player in the history of the NBA" in the balloting. Red Auerbach, the winningest coach in the history of the league, was named the "greatest coach in the history of the NBA" and the Philadelphia 76ers of 1966-67 were selected as the greatest team over the 35-year span, edging out the Los Angeles Lakers of 1971-72.

It was a glorious sight to see the all-stars, both past and present, all in the same setting. Larry Bird and Tiny Archibald were both on there on stage, along with George Gervin and Paul Westphal and Dennis Johnson and Artis Gilmore—today's greats—but your eyes kept drifting toward Pettit and Cousy and Big George Mikan, magical names from your youth, players you pretended to be when you would try a certain shot in the street in front of your home. "There are two seconds left in the championship game. Pettit has the ball, he shoots a jumper. It goes in. They were in. More often they didn't. You remember talking to Bill Bradley before a championship series in 1970, when Dolly Bird and the Lakers were the favorites, knocked by the Los Angeles Lakers to win their first title, and now he said that when he was a kid back in Crystal City, Missouri, he used to mimic West, Baylor and Chamberlain. Didn't we all?

It was a very good year.

Missouri, Kansas and Kansas State, reached the Final 16. Rolando Blackman and Darnell Valentine were tabbed in the first round of the NCAA draft. Four teams were ranked in the polls at one time or another. Kansas State's Jack Hartman shared national coach of the year honors with Coach Miller.

Oklahoma State's Gallagher Hall was packed and jumping for the first time in years. Iowa State's John Orr, who had been in his team finished in the cellar, routinely was given standing ovations when he came on the court. "I couldn't have had a better year," points out Missouri's Norm Stewart, whose Tigers overcame adversity to win the five-year-old title. "I expect the same thing this year," he adds.

Missouri's Big Eight prestige soared during the 1980-81 campaign. Although many of the players responsible have departed, the momentum easily could continue.

Forward Curtis Berry is the only starter team. Blackman is in a 24-9 Kansas starters back from has its top five in-

Smith. Second-year Big Eight coaches Orr and Oklahoma's Billy Tubbs have been busy recruiting "their" types of players, but figure to be a year or so away from jelling. The newcomer in the coaching ranks is Colorado's Tom Apke. Nebraska's Moe Iba also is officially new, although he did the bulk of the coaching the last two years while Joe Cipriano was losing his battle with cancer.

MISSOURI: Although the Tigers won the regular-season championship and played in the NCAA tourney, the season probably wasn't all it could have been.

What if Mark Dressler hadn't been lost to injury? What if prize recruit Richie Johnson hadn't left on the eve of the opening of practice? What if Curtis Berry had returned 100 percent from knee surgery? What if 6-11 Steve Stipanovich, with all that potential, consistently played up to it? What if Lex Drum hadn't quit early in the season? What if somebody had come through big at point guard?

Given a positive answer to a few of those questions, coach Norm Stewart may have been in Philadelphia with his team. Again this season, it looks as if a lot would have to go wrong for Missouri not to be among the elite.

All-conference forward Ricky Frazier (16.3 ppg, 6.3 rpg) returns along with guard Jon Sunvold (13.1 ppg) and Stipanovich (12.7 ppg, 7.4 rpg). Marvin "Moon" McCary figures to be more comfortable in the backcourt.

"One of the keys is the same thing it was last year," Dressler, says. "Stew was of the big fellows who wrecked a knee in a pickup game a year ago August. 'We assume he'll make it back, but Berry never made it back 100 percent. Dressler would have helped us last year."

Stewart recruited 6-9 homestate product Greg Savener, who was out all the blue-chip season, also expects help from juco guards Bruce Bridges and Michael Anderson. "With Cole maturity, we should have a good ball club," he says.

KANSAS STATE: The Wildcats often seem to be hanging on by their finger nails in recruiting ball. They hardly ever does K-State land anybody from the blue-chip lists. But Jack Hartman's teams always win, usually big.

"We've got kids playing for us that other people didn't want," Hartman admits. "To me, that's good recruiting. We've had seven conference newcomers of the year in 11 years. If that's not indicative of something, I don't know what is."

KANSAS STATE: Funny thing, but this year Kansas State did recruit some freshmen who were on other schools' lists. Put them with a strong cast of returnees and K-State looms as a contender for both Big Eight and national honors.

All-American Rolando Blackman is the only missing regular from the team that knocked Oregon State out of the NCAA playoffs. Returning are the league's leading rebounder 6-7 Ed Nealy (11.0 ppg, 9.1 rpg), the league's newcomer of the year 6-7 Randy Reed (12.1 ppg), 6-6 Tyrone Adams (11.5 ppg) and point guard Tim Jankovich. They are all seniors. Ed Galvao, the 6-4 Brazilian who started four games last season, will get first crack at Blackman's guard spot. Les Craft, the 6-10 center who went from starter to bench warmer, is also back.

Three players moved on, including guard Steve Reid who would have played, so some scholarships were open and Hartman signed six freshmen.

They include three Illinois all-stars—6-6 Lafayette Watkins (24 ppg, 11 rpg), 6-4 Kenny Williams and 6-7 Parker Laketa. "I have no idea which of them will be ready to play," says Hartman of his recruits, "but some of them will have to play a significant role."

OKLAHOMA STATE: The only trouble is that the season didn't end on Feb. 4 with the euphoric triple-overtime victory over Kansas. The upstart Cowboys were riding high then—leading the Big Eight with a 6-1 mark and standing 16-3 overall.

The rest of it was forgettable—losses in six of the last eight games. Realizing his team had lost it, coach Paul Hansen turned down an NIT invitation.

"Two things hurt us late, defense and outside shooting," Hansen says. "We've got to go back to the way we were last December and January. We've got to be more patient offensively and better defensively."

Courtside couple: K-State mascot and friend.

Still, it was the best season at O-State in years. And the whole cast, except for sixth man Randy Wright, returns. It is headed by 6-3 all-conference guard Matt Clark (17.3 ppg, 5.4 rpg), so quick and so big a leaper that he often was stationed at the low post. Then there's 6-7 Leroy Combs (16.4 ppg, 8.2 rpg), who needs to improve defensively; 6-7 Raymond Crenshaw, strong defensively and on the offensive boards; 6-5 Ricky Jacobs (10.3 ppg, 6.2 rpg) and playmaker Eddie Hannon (8 ppg). Hannon is being counted on as the outside threat that wasn't always present last season.

Hansen figures that 6-7 freshman Joe Atkinson, who averaged 23.4 points and 14.7 points at little Coyle, Okla., High is good enough to play immediately. Fresh guard Bill Self may help.

Can Oklahoma State regain its early form of last season? If the Cowpokes do, can they live with success? Those are the questions.

KANSAS: Two things have to happen for the Jayhawks to be pretty good. They need a point guard to replace Darnell Valentine, their often-brilliant quarterback for four seasons. "And obviously Guy, Magley and Mitchell have to have real good years," says coach Ted Owens.

34 Tony Guy, 35 David Magley and Victor Mitchell are the only three who played a lot returning from a 24-8 team. The 6-5 Guy (15.8 ppg), out of Valentine's shadow for the first time, may blossom into one of the nation's best.

He gave a possible preview of things to come with a 36-point explosion (13 of 15 from the field) when Kansas jolted Arizona State 87-71 in the NCAA tourney. The 6-7 Magley (9.5 ppg, 5.5 rpg) and the ponderous 6-8 Mitchell (8.1 ppg, 5.6 rpg) are solid, although the latter was nagged by a chronic knee injury.

Valentine's replacement probably will be 6-3 Jackie Fluery, who led El Camino to the California juco title, or 6-4 freshman Tad Boyle, who averaged 23.4 points as a senior on a 22-1 club in Greeley, Colo. Sophomore Jeff Konek also is in the mix. "All have been point guards, but play the second guard as well," says Owens.

The Jayhawks also need a comeback from 6-8 forward-center Kelly Knight. He was coming on strong in preseason practices a year ago, but went down with a knee injury that required surgery and didn't play a minute. Kansas probably can't afford even one key injury this year.

16-12 (1-1) NEBRASKA: On paper the last couple of years, the Husker's wouldn't scare you. But they won more often than not with tenacious defense, a disciplined offense and burly 6-7 Andre Smith taking charge around the bucket.

Now Smith is gone. And when coach Moe Iba went recruiting he had seven players back home—none of them taller than 6-5. He signed one big fellow, 6-10 Victor Chacon from an Iowa juco, four 6-6 types and a couple of guards.

"The question with us is if Victor Chacon can play," says Iba of the 215-pound native of the Dominican Republic. Chacon's statistics at Southeastern in West Burlington, Iowa, weren't that impressive—11.2 points and 7.8 rebounds. But he was slowed by a dislocated kneecap and averaged only about 20 minutes a game. "It depends on how the center comes along if we can speed up our offense," says Iba. "But we'll still try to guard somebody."

Nebraska's returnees include the best little man in the league, 5-9 Jack Moore (12.6 ppg, 6-5 Kenny Walton (8.3 ppg, 4.9 rpg) and 6-3 Ray Collins (7.1 ppg). There are openings for two Missouri juco forwards, Terry Smith (20.8 ppg at Moberly) and Leonard Johnson (16.1 ppg, 10.1 rpg at Jefferson). Another forward, Handy Johnson (19.0 ppg), came with Chacon and assistant Charlie Spoonhour from Iowa.

IOWA STATE: Johnny Orr, in his first season in the Big Eight, finished 9-18. "I wouldn't recommend losing to anybody," he says, "but it sure makes you humble. You decide you won't let it happen again." 10-18 (5-9)

The Cyclones are going to be better. Senior forward Robert Estes (14.9 ppg, 6.7 rpg), 6-11 junior center Ron Falenschek (10.5 ppg, 5.6 rpg) and sophomore Ron Harris (13.7 ppg, 5.9 rpg) return. Falenschek's figures would have been fancier if, just when he was coming on strong, he hadn't gone out with a foot injury.

Iowa State's future, though, lies with the seven freshmen Orr recruited. Most of them are from the Chicago area that he worked so effectively at Michigan. "We could have four of those guys starting," he says.

With Lefty Moore gone, the point guard spot is open for 5-11 Paul Beene, who averaged 22 points and eight assists at Chicago's Collins High, or Wesley Wallace from Evansville. Orr also is high on 6-5 Barry Stevens, a 27.3 scorer from Flint, Mich.

"We're defensively improved; we brought in good athletes," he says, "but we're not challenging anybody yet." 22-11 (8-6)

OKLAHOMA: Billy Tubbs already-slim chances for success in his first season at Oklahoma disappeared before a game was played when the best player he inherited, 6-3 Raymond Whitley, severed an Achilles tendon. The Sooners struggled with a 9-18 record.

They'll be improved in Tubbs' second season, but how much depends on Whitley's comeback—the injury was severe—and the quality of the nine new players (seven recruits and two redshirts) he'll have in uniform.

Three who started every game—there were times Tubbs had only eight available—return, including 6-4 Chuck Barnett (18.4 ppg). The others are 6-7 Les Pace (10.2 ppg, 8 rpg) and guard Bo Overton (9.7 ppg).

David Little, a 6-7 transfer from Texas Tech, becomes eligible. There's plenty of room for him and the best of the three freshmen and four juco players in the class of recruits.

COLORADO: Highly regarded Tom Apke takes over as Colorado's coach, bringing a 130-64 record for seven seasons at Creighton. That record will suffer in his maiden voyage with the Buffs. 11-16 (3-11)

Jo Jo Hunter, the Big Eight's leading scorer, and four other veterans from a 16-12 Bill Blair team are gone. Apke, as usually happens, got a late start in recruiting and signed only three players—6-5 hometown product Billy Thompson and Jucos, 8-2 Billy Houston and 6-5 Kevin Cornish.

He did inherit Jay Humphries, who showed signs as a freshman of being an excellent point guard, and 6-7 Jacques Tuz (8.0 ppg), who has been bedeviled by injuries during his CU career. Sophomore forward Vince Kelley (6.3 ppg) also shows promise, but the remaining holdovers got scant court time last season.

LAMAR: Gone are guards Mike "Silk" Oliver and Alvin "Roadrunner" Brooks and forward B.B. Davis. Oliver and Davis, both of whom scored 2,000 points in their careers at Lamar, leave gaping holes in the Cardinal lineup.

Coach Pat Foster hopes forward Kenneth Perkins (6-7, 195) and guard Terry Long (6-2, 174) can pull the team back together. But the supporting cast for Perkins (8 ppg, 7.4 rpg) and Long (10 ppg, 3.3 rpg) is as green as grass.

Foster brought in transfer Dave Richardson (6-9, 240) for a single year of eligibility from Boise State. He also tapped an old Arkansas connection by inking 6-5, 176-pound guard Brian Kellybrew of Westark JC.

But Foster has a tough road ahead. He passed his test as coach last year but this time around he'll be judged as a recruiter, too.

SOUTHWESTERN LOUISIANA: Coach Bobby Paschal's team finished 15-14 last year, which was something he didn't brag about. He would rather talk about guard Kevin Figaro (22.8 ppg), who led the SLC in scoring. Figaro's gone but the Ragin' Cajuns have 6-7 soph forward Graylin Warner (9.1 ppg, 4.9 rpg), 6-5 guard-forward Alonza Allen (10.1 ppg, 6.1 rpg), 6-3 senior guard Alford "Pop" Turner (10.1 ppg) and 6-9 junior center Dan Gay (6 ppg, 5.8 rpg) back. 24-7 (8-2)

That is a good nucleus. Paschal firmly believes the Cajuns will be better thanks to some good recruiting in the form of freshmen Willie Brand (19.1 ppg, 18 rpg in high school), all-stater Michael Hodge (21 ppg, 12.6 rpg) and Auburn transfer Roy McGrew.

Southwestern Louisiana faced a total of 10 teams last season that made postseason tournament appearances, so Paschal feels now is the time for his youngsters to grow up.

ARKANSAS STATE: An optimistic Coach Marvin Adams believes his Indians will be better. The Tribe had a 12-15 record last year that included a 2-8 conference finish. 15-11

Replacing center Anthony Miles (15.2 ppg) is Adams' biggest chore. Although junior center Jeff Bolding (6-9, 230), a 9.7 ppg, 6.5 rpg producer, senior Mike Sailes (10.5 ppg, 6.5 rpg) and junior guard Matt Garner (9.9 ppg) return, Adams' 14-man roster is half-full of people who have never played at Arkansas State. 13-11

Junior college imports—6-7 forward Monte Tyson and 6-4 guard Daryl Dodson—must come through in a hurry. Adams didn't like what happened last season since he's had winning records 9 of 11 years as a head coach. His 66-69 showing at Arkansas State is frustrating compared to his 187-123 career mark.

MCNEESE STATE: Coach Glenn Duhan suffered through an 11-21 season last year and many thought the ax might fall. An upset win over UT-Arlington in the opening round of the SLC tournament was McNeese's only victory over a conference team in 11 tries.

It's no wonder Duhan says his Cowboys will be "much better" this year. McNeese has but one standout player back—6-8 senior forward Chris Faggi (15.8 ppg, 5.6 rpg). Soph guard David Green, who led the team with 6.8 assists per game, also returns but must pick up a 3.8 ppg scoring average. Freshman guard Joe Dumars (26 ppg in high school) and freshman center Chris Hardin (6-8, 215), a 23 ppg per former, should get ample playing time early.

Duhan, a former McNeese grad, will definitely be under the gun in the upcoming season.

OU Loses Whitley

Guard to Miss Season With Injury

NORMAN — Raymond Whitley, standout guard on the University of Oklahoma basketball team, suffered a torn Achilles tendon and will be lost for the 1980-81 season, the school announced Tuesday.

Also out for the year is reserve forward Kyle Dodd, a senior from Dallas who underwent surgery Monday for torn cartilage in his knee.

Whitley, a senior from Indianapolis, averaged 13.1 points a game last year for the Sooners and led the team in assists with 118.

A team spokesman said Whitley tore his Achilles tendon in practice Friday afternoon. He was examined Tuesday morning by Dr. Don O'Donoghue and surgery has been scheduled for Thursday, the spokesman said.

"I didn't do anything out of the ordinary," said Whitley of the circumstances surrounding the injury. "I was just getting ready to move."

Whitley played point guard last year but had been switched to wing guard by new OU coach Billy Tubbs.

"My first reaction is that I'll redshirt or take a year's leave of absence," said Tubbs. See Page 20, Column 1

OVER TO BASKETBALL: Iowa State assistant Charlie Harrison was watching 6-5 guard Don Gandy of Amarillo Junior College play in a pickup game. After he finished he talked with the Amarillo coach about the possible chances of the Cyclones recruiting him. He was told that Gandy was heading for Oklahoma.

"If Gandy goes to Oklahoma he will be the best player they've ever had there, aside from Alvan Adams," Harrison remarked. "He is really a talented player."

Gandy is from South Bend, Ind. and played at Barton Community College last year after Kansas farmed him there after high school. The Oklahoma coaches were very happy he moved to Amarillo, a program very friendly to Billy Tubbs and his staff.

Sooners Lose Whitley

And Dodd for Season

"But this sort of thing is what you expect from athletics. We have to pick up and go on. We can't look back.

"The thing I'm most disappointed about is for Raymond. He had a great attitude and was playing well."

Tubbs said Whitley's injury further scrambles an already unstable situation. Now the Sooners will have to choose their two starting guards from among four players. Lettermen Benny Goldwire and Bo Overton have seen most duty at point guard while junior college transfer John Grammer and Bay City, Texas, Freshman Todd Chambers have been at the off-guard spot.

"Right now we're trying to determine the best lineup."

With the injuries, the Sooners are down to 12 players and one of those, redshirt David Little, will have to undergo knee surgery before he is ready to play next season.

— Chuckie Barnett (6-4, soph., 22.0), Steve Bajema (6-7, sr., 13.0), Les Pace (6-7, jr., 15.5), Bo Overton (6-3, soph., 16.0), Bennie Goldwire (6-3, sr., 11.0).

Tubbs'

Billy Tubbs

Little

David Little, a starting forward for Texas Tech last season, has signed a basketball scholarship agreement with the Oklahoma Sooners and has told OU coaches he plans to enroll at OU in the fall.

If he transfers to OU, Little would not become eligible until the 1981-82 season. A sophomore last season, he would have two years of eligibility remaining.

Little, a 6-7 former Texas all-stater from Abilene, averaged 13.4 points while starting in all 29 games for the Red Raiders last fall. As a high school senior, he was named the most valuable player in the Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star game two years ago.

Joining Billy Tubbs at Oklahoma is Danny Kasper, who was also his assistant at Lamar.

Billy Tubbs: No. 2 Is OK

But then came the University of Oklahoma. Those in Norman were shocked when Dave Bliss stepped down a week after the season was over. You almost detected a bit of panic when the announcement was made because recruiting efforts would be killed if a coach wasn't named immediately.

Tubbs' name came to the front right away. Regents Tom McCurdy of Purcell and Richard Bell of Norman liked him. Then came along the name of John Thompson of Georgetown. Sooner officials were enamored with the thought of bringing in this highly successful Eastern skipper.

But when that fell through, Tubbs was contacted immediately. His feelings weren't hurt because he wasn't the first choice. "I wasn't the first choice of my wife and that's worked out pretty well," he cracked.

That typifies Billy Tubbs. He has a good sense of humor. He likes to throw those one-liners at you. Basketball isn't a life or death situation to him. Even though he's been around it all of his life.

The 45-year-old Tulsa native was a natural for the post. It's not that big a deal that he's from this state. The important thing is his ability to recruit and coach. The Oklahoma selection committee was drooling over the aspects of having a guy that did so much for Lamar on a limited budget. They have nice dreams of what they think he can accomplish at an athletic factory like OU.

Remember when there was no shooting clock? No three-point goal? Sure you do because it was only last season.

But the Big Eight will be one of the few conferences playing "old-time basketball" during the 1982-83 campaign. The coaches, divided on the clock and three-point gimmicks, didn't jump on the bandwagon to experiment with them after a discussion last spring.

With the rules and coaches unchanged, there's not much new about the Big Eight heading into the new season. That's not all bad because it's an improved league—sometimes unrecognized—that had two teams (Kansas State and Kansas) in the Final 8 two years ago and two (Kansas State and Missouri) in the Final 16.

The Big Eight also doesn't have a new favorite, although maybe it should have. Oklahoma jumped from 9-18 to 22-11 in two seasons under Billy Tubbs. The quick-to-shoot Sooners have everybody who matters back, plus a stellar recruit in 6-9 Wayman Tisdale. But Missouri remains the proven commodity.

Norm Stewart's Tigers, with three straight conference championships, lost offensive meal ticket Ricky Frazier and defensive whiz Moon McCrary. But they remain good enough to win another title if Stewart receives the hoped-for senior leadership, and points, from Steve Stipanovich and Jon Sundvold.

Oklahoma State and Nebraska, with veteran teams, figure to win—maybe big. Make Kansas, coming off an awful year by Jayhawk standards, the darkhorse because of top newcomers.

Graduation-riddled Kansas State should slip, but Jack Hartman has rebuilt quickly before. Iowa State and Colorado will be better, but not enough to contend.

MISSOURI: The Tigers have been the class of Big Eight basketball for three straight seasons. They're coming off 27-4, a school record.

Doing something comparable for an encore will be difficult because the man responsible for much of the above—conference player of the year Ricky Frazier—is moving on to the NBA. Also missing is Moon McCrary, the 6-4 forward who specialized in bewitching, bothering and bewildering the foe's best scorer. No way they won't be missed, but don't bet against Norm Stewart's club winning its usual 20 or so.

"I think we'll have another very good team," says Stewart. "We hope to be better."

Mizzou boasts the most imposing big man in the league, 6-11, 250-pound Steve Stipanovich, who put his sophomore troubles aside to average 11.6 points and 8.0 rebounds. With Frazier gone, he'll assume more of the scoring load.

Missouri also has do-it-all 6-2 senior guard Jon Sundvold (12.2 ppg) and 6-1 Prince Bridges

Bob Hentzen has won the Kansas sportswriter of the year award for the 10th time. A past president of the U.S. Basketball Writers Assn., he now serves on its board of directors. He has been sports editor of the Topeka Capital Journal since 1968 and writing there since 1958.

(102 assists), whose work at point guard positively answered a preseason question mark a year ago. Stocky 6-4 Michael Walker also is in the guard picture.

The forwards probably will be 6-9 Greg Cavener, who served as Stipanovich's backup as a freshman, and 6-6 senior Mark Dressler, who was usually the first sub off the bench after coming back from knee surgery.

With five seniors on the roster, Stewart recruited seven players. Best bets to play now are three juco products—6-8 James Douglas, 6-6 Dwight Moody and 6-6 Duane Thornton.

OKLAHOMA: Oops, the Sooners made the so-called experts (including this one) look like dummies last season when they went 22-11 and wound up an onrushing third in the Big Eight.

Sure, the Sooners' record was helped by a soft early schedule. But they were a dam good club down the stretch. Now they've got five starters returning and are adding 6-9, 235-pound Wayman Tisdale, perhaps the nation's top big man prospect.

They boast the league's most explosive one-two punch in guard Chucky Barnett (18.9 ppg) and 6-7 David Little (18.6). Point guard Bo Overton (7.2) also has some outside sting. The other starters, whose job is to go after the misses, are 6-10 Charles Jones (8.1 ppg, 6.0 rpg) and 6-7 Darryl Allen. Muscular 6-6 Calvin Pierce also has some starts under his belt.

Coach Billy Tubbs also adds 6-4 juco guard Don Gandy ("potentially the best athlete on the team") and 6-9 freshman Aaron Combs. Two injury redshirts, 6-4 Shawn Clark and 6-4 William Tisdale (Wayman's brother) also should help.

Wayman Tisdale averaged 23.7 points and 11.8 boards in high school in Tulsa. He'll start his college career at the high post. "He's got a pro body and all the tools," says Tubbs. "It's a matter of him getting experience."

OKLAHOMA STATE: The Cowpokes, with four returning starters, look dangerous. But in a similar situation last season, they finished a very average 15-12 (7-7 in the Big Eight).

What happened? "The veterans didn't play good," says coach Paul Hansen in one breath, adding in the next, "This is the strongest we've been in my four years at Oklahoma State."

The Cowpokes' major loss is point guard Eddie Hannon, who led the league in assists. His replacement looms as sophomore Bill Self.

Their major plus is 6-3 senior Matt Clark (12.1 ppg), who is so quick and such a leaper that he often works effectively inside. Other returning regulars are slender 6-8 center Leroy Combs (12.2, 7.2 rpg), smooth 6-7 sophomore Joe Atkinson (9.4, 5.5) and 6-3 Lorenza Andrews (8.8). The 6-7 Raymond Crenshaw, not a scorer but a solid defender, also returns.

Oklahoma is led by David Little and Chuck Barnett, Missouri by Jon Sundvold, Steve Stipanovich, athletic director Dave Hart and coach Norm Stewart.

Two newcomers figure to help immediately—6-8 juco forward Anthony Epps and 6-6 freshman David Taylor.

NEBRASKA: The Huskers, with nobody taller than 6-6, experienced a winning season (16-12). They even hung a loss on Missouri at Columbia. Typical of Moe Iba's teams, they did it with defense, patience and quickness.

They'll trot out all of those commodities again and they may even have a big guy if 6-10 Dave Hoppen, a 24.3 scorer, 12.0 rebounder from Omaha, shows he can play in the big time. "I think he's got the ability," says Iba.

Nebraska lost its quarterback and only double-figures scorer, 5-9 Jack Moore, plus dependable Ray Collins. But even though the size and statistics won't impress you, there's experience and talent aplenty returning.

Start with the Johnsons—long-range bomber Handy (9.3 ppg) and 6-6 Lenard. Then there are four seniors familiar with the Iba style—6-5 Kenny Walton, 6-6 Terry Smith, 6-6 Claude Renfro and 6-2 Greg Downing. All had some starts last year. Additions include 6-4 Stan Cloudy and 5-10 David Ponce from the juco ranks.

"We've got more ability than last year," says Iba. "I think we could be better. We have to be because everybody else is going to be."

KANSAS: The Jayhawks might be a year away from becoming big winners. But they are likely to show improvement from a 13-14 season when they lost eight of their last nine games.

Kansas lost its two best players, Tony Guy and David Magley, from that club which over-achieved early before sagging to 4-10 in the Big Eight—its worst league mark in 20 years.

The Jayhawks recruited three high school forwards—6-9 Kerry Boagni, 6-6 Calvin Thompson and 6-5 Ron Kellogg—who were rated highly by national scouting services. They also pick up 6-6 transfer Carl Henry, who averaged 19.0 points and 11.7 rebounds as a soph at Oklahoma City U. Those four will be blended with seven lettermen—including starters 6-7 Kelly Knight (12.4 ppg, 5.6

point guard Tad Boyle.

"We're bringing in a little bit better athletes in terms of quickness and speed," says coach Ted Owens, "but the other players have experience. There should be great competition."

Next season, look out as 7-1 Greg Dreiling becomes eligible after moving from Wichita State.

KANSAS STATE: It's been 11 years—Jack Hartman's first season as coach—since Kansas State has finished out of the Big Eight's first division. The Wildcats have won three conference titles in that span, claimed second seven times and qualified for postseason competition on nine occasions.

But this is the season when Kansas State could find how the other half lives. On paper, it looms as a second-division ball club.

Les Craft (9.6 ppg, 5.0 rpg), the 6-10 senior center, is the lone returning starter from the nucleus that had been to the NCAA tourney the last three seasons. Ed Galvao, the slick-passing senior from Brazil, is the only other player who has ever started a game for the Wildcats.

"Our situation is wide open," says Hartman, who seriously flirted with the University of Arizona before deciding to take on the rebuilding job with six sophomores and six freshmen recruits—five from the St. Louis area.

The 6-6 Lafayette-Watkins and 6-4 Kenny Williams were the only members of last year's freshman class who earned much playing time.

IOWA STATE: Something good may be about ready to happen in Ames, but there's no evidence so far that coach Johnny Orr is getting luckier.

Orr's first two Cyclone editions suffered because of various injuries to 6-11, 250-pound center Ron Falenschek, who ain't bad when healthy. Now there's another big 'un joining Falenschek on the roster—7-1, 230-pound freshman Brad Dudek from Duluth, Minn. But he's also a physical question mark after breaking a leg in a summer car accident.

Robert Estes, the only Cyclone to start all 27 games in a 10-17 season, is gone along with guard Malvin Warrick. Returnees include 6-3 Ron Harris (13.3 ppg), 6-5 Barry Stevens (13.0) and point guard Terrence Allen. The best of the recruits may be 6-4 shooting guard Ron Virgil, the "Ice Man" scoring 24 points a game as a Chicago prep.

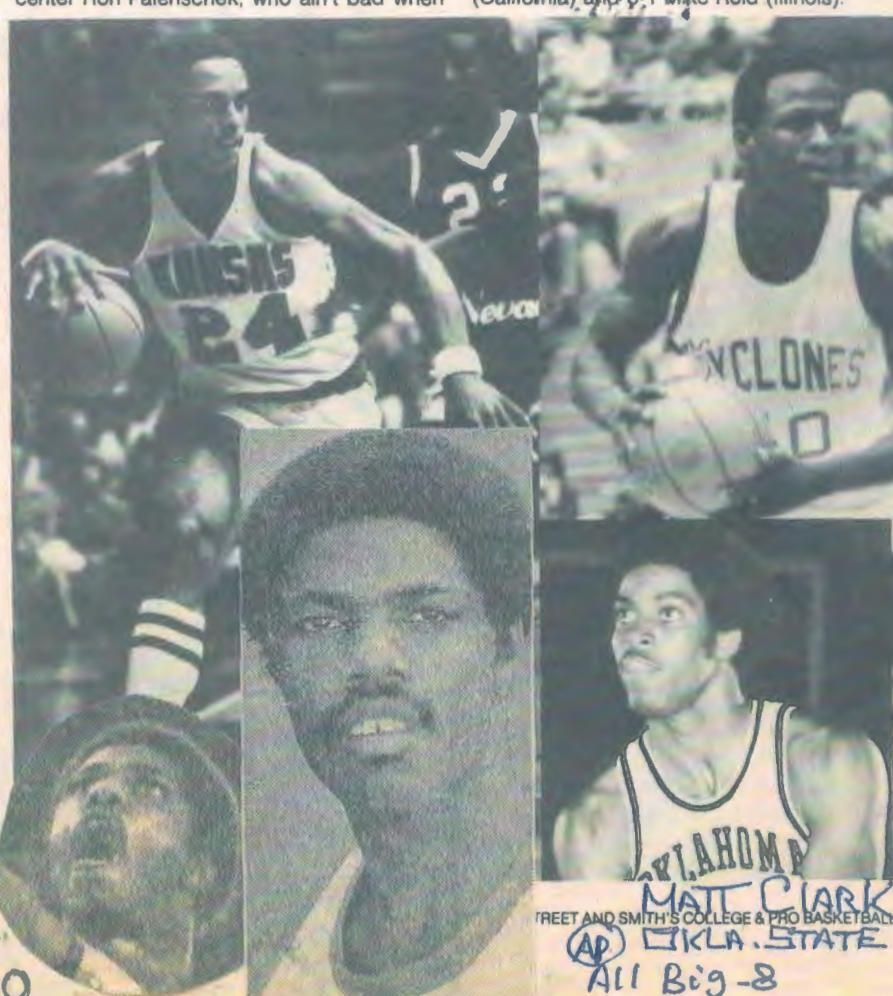

Iowa State won three of its last four in the league last season and Orr is optimistic. "We're there right now," he says. "This is the season we can turn the corner."

COLORADO: The Buffs, as expected, brought up the rear in the Big Eight last season with a 3-11 mark—not an uncommon indoctrination for a new coach. But Tom Apke showed no signs of panic, starting the same five for 27 games.

Two of those, leading scorer and rebounder Jacques Tuz and guard Joe Washington, don't return. But Apke's patience through adversity should pay off in a few more victories this time around.

The returning veterans are 6-7 center Vince Kelley (13.4 ppg, 6.4 rpg), 6-7 forward Rob Gonzalez (10.3) and all-conference guard candidate Jay Humphries (10.3). Guards Kevin Cornish and Bill Houston also were part of last season's nucleus.

There's opportunity aplenty for the freshman recruits, which include 6-9 Don Yowell (from Colorado), 6-8 Ron Roberts (New York), 6-9 Randy Downs (California), 6-2 Jeff Hughes (California) and 6-1 Mike Reid (Illinois).

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Ted Owens says his young Kansas team was poised for a breakthrough, but Monte Johnson, who fired him, points to a "12-year pattern of inconsistency."

Johnson, named Kansas athletic director last November, confirmed Monday he had dismissed Owens after 19 years as Kansas' head basketball coach.

"Consistency," said Johnson when asked to specify where Owens had failed. Owens' teams won six Big Eight championships and made seven trips to the NCAA tournament, finishing fourth in 1971 and 1974. His 19-year record shows 348 wins and 182 losses for a winning percentage of .657.

KTVY to Air OU Games

NORMAN — The University of Oklahoma regents Thursday awarded broadcasting rights worth at least $54,000 to KTVY (Channel 4) of Oklahoma City for exclusive live coverage of Sooner basketball games.

The contract, approved Thursday, calls for Channel 4 to broadcast at least seven home games at $6,200 each and at least three road games at $3,800 each.

The games are to be carried over Channel 4 and an undisclosed station in Tulsa.

KTVY will provide OU with 80 percent of the revenues derived from the broadcasts, less production costs outside Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

The three-year contract has a two-year renewal option.

The contract also gives OU final approval of any announcers chosen to cover the games, said Gerald Turner, acting provost at OU.

NEAR WEST: Sooner or Later

It was just a matter of time before the high-powered Oklahoma Sooners exploded. Oklahoma, which dropped two of its first three outings, established a school record in a 117-85 rout of West Texas State. Earlier, center Wayman Tisdale collected 51 points and 17 rebounds in a 110-61 blowout of Abilene Christian. Tisdale's 51-point effort apparently is the highest for a freshman since the first-year college athletes were allowed to compete at the varsity level in 1973. It also was the second-highest outburst in Big Eight history. Kansas sophomore Wilt Chamberlain pumped in 52 against Northwestern in his first game as a Jayhawk.

Newell named interim coach at OU

Mike Newell

NORMAN — Assistant Mike Newell was named interim head coach of the University of Oklahoma basketball team this morning and he will handle the team until head coach Billy Tubbs recovers from a head injury.

Newell, 31, is in his third year on the OU staff.

Tubbs remained in the intensive care unit at St. Anthony Hospital today after being struck while jogging Sunday. Tubbs sustained a skull fracture and is expected to be hospitalized for another one or two weeks.

Wade Walker, the OU athletic director, announced this morning that Newell would be in charge of the team in Tubbs' absence.

"One really never likes to face a situation such as this," Newell said this morning in a prepared statement from the OU sports information department, "but I suppose someone has to assume control of things during a time like this.

"We do not plan on making any changes at this time, because this is Billy's team and we plan to continue coaching the way we have all season with Billy. We will work hard this week with the players and instruct them the same way we have all year through Billy.

"We will all have to pull together as a coaching staff and team and go from here."

Newell is a graduate of Sam Houston State and played on the 1973 team there that was ranked No. 1 in the NAIA at the end of the regular season with a perfect 32-0 record.

He was freshman coach at Sam

School in Kentland, Ind., during the 1975-76 and '76-77 seasons.

Newell was assistant coach at San Jacinto Junior College in Texas for three seasons before coming to OU with Tubbs 2½ seasons ago.

OU's other full-time assistant is Mike Mims and he is in the first year on the Sooner staff. Mike Anderson is a part-time assistant.

OU is tied for third in the Big Eight with a 6-4 league mark and four regular season games remaining. The Sooners host Nebraska Thursday night, have road games with Colorado Saturday and Iowa State March 2 before closing the regular season at Kansas State March 5.

The Big Eight post-season tournament begins March 8.

It's still unknown when Tubbs will be able to rejoin the team.

Wife Says Billy 'In Good Spirits'

FEB. 22, 1983

By Andy Morgan

Pat Tubbs paced the hallway just outside her husband Billy's hospital room most of Monday.

The University of Oklahoma head basketball coach suffered serious head injuries after he was hit by a car Sunday morning while jogging in Norman. He remained in stable condition Monday night in St. Anthony Hospital's intensive care unit.

"He said he has a headache," said Mrs. Tubbs late Monday after talking with her husband. Hospital officials are restricting Tubbs' visitors to only the immediate family.

"He's in good spirits. I think he's doing just fine," Mrs. Tubbs said.

She and son, Tommy, who was wearing a red satin "Sooners" jacket, talked with friends and relatives Monday at the hospital.

"We haven't talked much about basketball," said the younger Tubbs, a redshirt junior on the Oklahoma basketball team. "We're more concerned with his life."

Hospital spokesman Matt Stratton said Tubbs probably will remain in the intensive care unit for two to three days until the swelling in his brain decreases. He said Tubbs would remain hospitalized for a week to two weeks.

Tubbs is being given antibiotics and an unspecified drug to reduce the brain's swelling, Stratton said.

The Oklahoma coach suffered a fracture on the right base of the skull and a cerebral contusion, a mild bruise on the brain, the spokesman said.

Tisdale Player of Year Top Newcomer in Big

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Wayman Tisdale, the Oklahoma freshman described by one expert as the second-best college basketball player in the nation, has been voted the double honor of Associated Press Big Eight newcomer of the year and player of the year.

A panel of sports writers and sportscasters made the choice for Tisdale, who led all Big Eight players in scoring, rebounding, blocked shots and field goal percentage, a unanimous selection as newcomer of the year. He won the player of the year honors in close balloting over Steve Stipanovich, the 6-11 Missouri senior who helped the Tigers to four consecutive conference titles and is already his school's career scoring leader. Tisdale collected nine votes for player of the year while $5\frac{1}{2}$ went to Stipanovich and $1\frac{1}{2}$ to Missouri guard Jon Sundvold.

It was announced earlier Norm Stewart of Missouri is year's Associated Press Big Eight coach of the year. Stewart, a former Tiger guard, notched his 300th career victory at the Missouri home with the victory over Iowa State in the regular season finale Saturday.

Not since Wilt Chamberlain's Kansas has anyone made such an immediate impact on Big Eight basketball as Tisdale, who was recruited by more than 200 colleges out of Tulsa Washington High School. A Chamberlain's single-season conference scoring record of 800 points set in the 1956-57 season may be in jeopardy. Tisdale headed into Tuesday night's first-round matchup against Kansas in the Big Eight post-season tournament with 766 points. Depending on how many post-season games the Sooners play, he could become

Tisdale Is Rainbow MVP

Wayman Tisdale

HONOLULU (AP) — Wayman Tisdale, the University of Oklahoma's star freshman, was named the Most Valuable Player in the 19th Rainbow Classic basketball tournament.

Tisdale scored 102 points in three games and collected 43 rebounds.

He scored 44 points and had 17 rebounds Thursday night when Oklahoma beat host Hawaii, 96-85, for third place in the tournament.

"I don't think there was any question that Wayman stood out," said Billy Tubbs, OU coach. "In a way, with all the players here, it's amazing. But if you know Wayman, it's not amazing at all."

The 6-9 Tisdale scored the most points and had the most rebounds in the tournament. He was joined on the all-tournament team by Sam Perkins and Michael Jordan of North Carolina; Steve Stipanovich and Jon Sundvold of Missouri and Byron Scott of Arizona State.

Missouri 48, Oklahoma 41

Senior Jon Sundvold scored 17 points, and center Steve Stipanovich added 16 to lead 12th-ranked Missouri past Oklahoma in a Big Eight Conference game in Columbia, Mo., featuring slow-down offenses by both teams.

The point total was the lowest of the season for Oklahoma, which entered the game as the nation's top scoring team, averaging more than 91 points a contest.

Wayman Tisdale of Oklahoma, the Big Eight's leading scorer and the nation's second highest scorer, led all scorers with 19 points, far below his 27.4 average.

Missouri is now 14-2 overall and 2-0 in conference play. The Sooners dropped to 14-4 and 1-1.

With the score tied 4-4, the Tigers scored seven of the next nine points to take an 11-6 lead with 15 minutes 42 seconds left in the first half. Tisdale picked up his third foul with 10:43 remaining and sat out the rest of the half.

With Tisdale on the bench, Oklahoma went into a delay offense. The Sooners scored the next two baskets to close the gap to 21-20 with two minutes left. A 20-foot jumper by Sundvold gave Missouri a 23-20 lead at the 1:44 mark, but a tip-in by Oklahoma's Charles Jones just before the buzzer pulled the Sooners within one, 23-22, at intermission.

The Sooners took their first lead of the game, 26-25, 2½ minutes into the second half. But immediately after the lead changed, Tisdale picked up his fourth foul and again went to the bench.

The Tigers then reeled off seven straight points for a 32-26 lead with 11:50 to play.

Tisdale re-entered the game and quickly scored five straight points to pull Oklahoma within one, 32-31, with 10:23 left. But Missouri took command of the game by scoring eight of the next 10 points to open up a 40-33 lead with 7:58 left.

Missouri went into its deliberate, keep-away offense with five minutes left, and although the Sooners on several occasions pulled within three points, they never got closer. Clutch free throws by Prince Bridges, Greg Cavener and Mark Dressler in the final 1½ minutes kept Missouri ahead.

The crowd of 12,958 was a new Hearnest Center record.

Steve Stipanovich . . . No jinx on OU.

OU Cager Lee Dies

By Dean Bailey

Bruce Lee, a 21-year-old forward who possibly could have been a starter on the University of Oklahoma basketball team next season, died Saturday from complications following a tonsillectomy at an Oklahoma City hospital.

Lee died at 11:14 a.m., according to a Deaconess Hospital official, who said the cause of death had not been determined.

Margaret Barrett, nursing supervisor at Deaconess, said Lee died following the tonsillectomy, not during the routine surgery.

Lee, a 6-8, 220-pound forward, was a reserve on the OU basketball team for the past two seasons. An All-State and All-City player at Edmond High School, Lee played one year at Seminole Junior College before transferring to OU two seasons ago.

Lee shared a house with Tommy Tubbs, a teammate at OU and the son of Sooner basketball coach Billy Tubbs.

"Bruce and Tommy were close," said the OU coach Saturday evening. "But our whole team is close, and this is a tough loss for all of us. Our prayers and hearts go out to his family as well as to ourselves as team members."

Tubbs said he was unaware that Lee was scheduled to have the tonsillectomy Saturday.

"I knew that Bruce was having trouble with his tonsils throughout the year," said Tubbs, "and he decided to wait until school was out to have the surgery."

Tubbs said he received word Saturday morning that Lee had developed complications after surgery.

"Tommy got there (to the hospital) before I did," said Tubbs. "We had heard that Bruce had quit breathing and that they were working on him. We rushed to the hospital with optimistic hopes that he would be alright, but we were worried sick."

"When Tommy got there they were still working on him, but when I got there, I found out that he hadn't made it."

Lee played in 11 games last season, accumulating 10 points and 25 rebounds. He led the OU team in rebounds (with six) in the Sooners' final game of the season against Indiana in the NCAA Midwest Regional tournament.

Tubbs said Lee had a shot at becoming a starter for OU next season. "He was certainly a possible starter for us," he said.

"Bruce hadn't played that much the past two years, but he had made a tremendous contribution to our program. I had a tremendous amount of respect for him. He gave 100 percent all the time. He pushed the players ahead of him. He had a super attitude, just an outstanding young man. It's just tough for all of us right now."

Lee is survived by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lee of Edmond, and a brother, Jeffrey.

Funeral services are scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday at Nichols Hills Baptist Church with burial in Rose Hill Cemetery. Arrangements are being handled by Hahn-Cook-Street and Draper Funeral Home.

Time and place: 2:50 p.m., Roberts Stadium, Evansville, Ind.

Radio-TV: KTOK (1000), KGOU-FM (106) and Sooner network; KWTU (Channel 9).

Records: Oklahoma — 24-8; Indiana — 23-5.

Lineups: OU — Wayman Tisdale, 6-9, fr.; David Little, 6-7, sr.; Charles Jones, 6-10, sr.; Chucky Barnett, 6-4, sr.; Jan Pannell, 6-1, jr. Indiana — Randy Wittman, 6-6, sr.; Steve Bouchie, 6-8, sr.; Uwe Blab, 7-2, soph.; Jim Thomas, 6-3, sr.; Tony Brown, 6-2, sr.

Outlook: Winner plays Kentucky Thursday night in Knoxville, Tenn. Only once have Sooners won two games in NCAA Tournament and that was in 1947 when team lost championship game to Holy Cross. In 12 years, Bobby Knight has taken Indiana to 11 post-season events. A trademark of a Knight team is a strong finish. Taking the last 10 games of the regular season in his 12 years at IU, the Hoosiers have a 95-25 record. This team, however, lost three of its last seven, losing second-leading scorer, Ted Kitchel (out for the year), in the process. His replacement, Bouchie, won the state's "Mr. Basketball" award four years ago when OU's Barnett of Indianapolis finished second. Indiana can be expected to play man-to-man defense for 40 minutes while the Sooners will probably open in a zone. Point guard Bo Overton worked out with the team Saturday but remains doubtful with a sprained ankle.

Tisdale Shatters Chamberlain's Mark

By Tim Cowlshaw
Staff Writer

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — It began in defeat 113 days ago in Tark's Shark tank in Las Vegas. It ended in defeat Sunday in the state Bobby Knight has made synonymous with college basketball. Along the way the Oklahoma Sooners tied a school record with 24 victories and unveiled a freshman who rewrote basketball history.

Wayman Tisdale scored 14 points Sunday at Roberts Stadium, giving him 810 for the season and breaking by 10 points Wilt Chamberlain's 27-year-old Big Eight record. But that was a mere footnote as Indiana's stifling defense and frustrating offense wrote the final chapter of the Sooners' season with a convincing 63-49 victory.

Oklahoma bowed out of just its fourth NCAA tournament with a 24-9 record while the Hoosiers, 24-5, advanced to the round of 16 for the seventh time in Knight's 12 years. Indiana will play Kentucky Thursday night in the Midwest Regional in Knoxville, Tenn., while Louisville, a winner over Tennessee in Sunday's second game, will meet Arkansas.

It might have been a tribute to the Sooners' talent that Knight saw fit to call time out with 14:36 remaining and send his Hoosiers into a delay offense. Their lead, 12 points at the half, had been trimmed to eight at 43-35.

"I'd have been content to win 43-35 at that point," Knight said. "I thought we were tired. I thought (7-2 center Uwe) Blab was tired when I took him out in the first half. We had talked about putting (Steve) Bouchie in and running high when there was 16 minutes left, and we went to it with 14 left."

The Hoosiers ended up committing a foul with 10:39 left, and OU coach Mike Newell inserted seldom-used Don Gandy into the game. Fourteen seconds later, the junior from South Bend nailed a jumper from the top of the key. After Randy Wittman, the game's top scorer with 22 points, missed from the right baseline, Oklahoma had an opportunity to make it a four-point game, but David Little missed a pull-up 18-footer on the fast break.

"That's a good shot. David has the green light to take that shot," Newell said. Indiana's defense was a red light most of the afternoon as the All-Big Eight forward attempted just eight shots and scored nine points. Little did not make a field goal in the second half.

Tisdale, with 14, was the only Sooner to reach double figures, as Chucky Barnett, who had 26 in the Sooners' first-round win over Alabama Birmingham, was held to eight and Charles "Big Time" Jones seven.

"It goes to show you that defensively they do a great job," Newell said. Oklahoma hit only 39 percent from the field while the Hoosiers made 51 percent and raised their record in games in which they shoot over 50 percent to 17-0.

"Wittman and (Jim) Thomas made some big shots when they cut it down to six points. If they had cut it anymore, I'm not sure we could've done it," Knight said.

Following Little's miss at the 9:55 mark, Indiana outscored OU, 12-3, in the next six minutes to put the game out Outlook: Winner of this NCAA first-round tournament game faces Big 10 champion Indiana (23-5) Sunday at 2:50 p.m. Tickets for tournament are sold out. The two teams have never met. UAB came into existence five years ago and has been to NIT once and NCAA three straight times. Only starter back from a year ago is Luellen Foster, but he now comes off the bench. While 11-point opening loss to UNLV was Sooners' most one-sided of season, the Blazers lost to Old Dominion by 27, Mississippi State by 20, Virginia Commonwealth and Mississippi by 12 each. Blazers are 5-7 away from home, Sooners are 6-5. Interim coach Mike Newell downplayed questions about his coaching matchup with veteran Gene Bartow. "If it was between Bartow and I, we'd win because, hell, I'd beat him one-on-one." In each of last two seasons, Blazers have won an NCAA tournament game against a dominant big man. Two years ago they defeated Kentucky with Sam Bowie and last season they knocked Ralph Sampson and Virginia from the tournament.
